PROPOSE BIG CUT IN FEDERAL TAX

COMMITTEE TO GO INTO SESSION
OCTOBER 19

WILL TRY TO REDUCE
U. S. TAXES $4,000,000,000

The Board Plans to Prepare Bill in Time for Next Session of Congress in December—Coolidge in Favor of Further Reductions.

Washington.—The house ways and means committee has called into session October 19, when it will immediately begin consideration of a measure to effect $400,000,000 reduction in taxes.

Representative W. A. Oldfield of Arkansas spoke as follows:
"We will hold brief hearings and then get down to the actual writing of the bill. It will be ready for submission to the house on the opening day of the session, December 7. The plan then is to rush it through, certainly in time to become effective in the March 15 returns.

"Our committee can do more work with congress out of session than if the house were meeting we had to interrupt hearings or executive sessions to answer roll calls or participate in other legislative business.

"There will be no partisanship on the part of the Democrats. President Coolidge has said he is for proportionate reductions all down the line. We are for that program. We have favored it from the beginning.

"What we will continue to oppose is any greater reductions for one class than for another or shifting of the burden from the shoulders of one group to another."

COOLIDGE WILL SETTLE
BELGIUM DEBT CONTROVERSY

Washington.—The debt negotiations between the United States and Belgium were suspended pending a conference to be held between President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot, representing the American debt commission.

The American commissioners desire to lay the whole situation before Coolidge prior to a resumption of the discussions with the Belgian commissioners. Belgium's debt of $480,000,000 is relatively small, but the effect upon other debtors who owe America much larger sums is expected to be vital.
Belgium cannot get further credits in the United States unless she settles her debts. She is disposed to make a settlement and is asking for leniency
in terms.

Coolidge Favors Air Development

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge is most anxious that the federal government do everything in its power to further the development of commercial aviation, it was stated in his behalf. He favors the employment of the naval dirigible Los Angeles in promoting this new avenue of transportation. The presidential view on commercial aviation was given in connection with the recent proposal made by a group of financiers to take over the Los Angeles and place it in transcontinental transportation. Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur will consider this proposal and report to Coolidge.

Financier's Wife Dies

New York.—Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the financier, died at her Long Island home. Death was due to cardiac collapse, an announcement by the Morgan firm stated. For two months
Mrs. Morgan had been ill with sleeping sickness. Several weeks ago relatives and friends regarded her condition as serious. Mrs. Morgan became seriously ill June 14. She was married to the financier in 1890. She was formerly Jane Norton Crewe.

Seek Pardon for Ex-Governor

Washington.—Attorney General Sargent has been asked by an Indiana delegation to recommend a pardon for Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana, who has served about fifteen months of a 10-year sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary, imposed after his conviction on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Germany Requests Return

Washington.—The German ambassador, Baron Ago von Maltzan, has delivered a note to the State department asking that negotiations begin immediately for return of $350,000,000 worth of German property sequestered by this government during the war, according to information received.

Bar Harbor Inn Burned

Bar Harbor, Maine.—The Mount
Desert Inn, oldest hotel in Bar Harbor, was destroyed by fire. All guests escaped, but many valuables were lost.

CIRCULATION OF $1 BILLS TO BE MATERIALLY CUT

Officials Claim the Use of Notes
of Small Denomination Is a Great Waste of Time for Both the Banker
and Patron.

Washington.—The treasury's drive to reduce the number of $1 bills in circulation is for the benefit of the man in the street, according to Assistant Secretary Charles S. Dewey.

"You go to the bank to cash a $20 check," Dewey explains. "You ask for two fives and ten ones. That's twelve pieces of currency. A ten, a five, two twos and a one will serve equally as well and you have gotten only five pieces of currency. Time is saved for yourself, the bank teller and money for the government."

Last year the bureau of engraving
and printing used 157,000,000 sheets of paper to print the currency. This year 200,000,000 sheets will be used.
Four bills are printed from each sheet.
This means there will be approximately eight new bills printed this year for every person in the United States. More than eight hundred tons of paper will be used this year to print one dollar bills, as compared with ninety tons in 1900.

Gold Concession Ratified

Moscow, Russia.—The Lena gold fields concession, provisionally granted an Anglo-American syndicate by the Russian Soviet concessions committee in May, was ratified by the council of commissars. This is the largest concession yet made by the Soviet. It takes the form of a 50-year contract with the British Lena Goldfields corporation for the exploitation of the Lena gold fields of Siberia, which are estimated to contain more than $100,000,- worth of gold in already prospected areas. American banking interests participate to the extent of 50 per cent in the investment.

Finish 9,445 Miles of Federal Aid Road

Washington.—Nine thousand four hundred and forty-five miles of federal aid road was completed during the last fiscal year, according to the bureau of public roads of the department of agriculture. An additional 4,587 miles is reported completed but has not been finally inspected and accepted by the bureau.

"The outstanding result of the year's work," the bureau said, "has been the large mileage of continuous highway routes made available."

Bulgaria Needs Financial Help

Sofia, Bulgaria.—Bulgaria's financial plight is outlined in a statement by Premier Tzankoff, it being intimated that the country would welcome outside help. "Bulgaria is so overburdened with reparation and other international payments and the heavy cost of maintaining a hired army," the statement issued said, "that its only hope is in some arrangement such as the Dawes reparation plan as now applied to Germany."

Chinese to Hold Tong Meet

Minneapolis.—Members of the Hip
Sing tong of America, their ranks thinned somewhat by the tong war of last winter, will gather in Minneapolis
October 5 for their annual convention.
The convention will last two or three weeks and about two hundred delegates will be here to represent the five thousand members of the Hip Sing. Hong Jung Hing of San Francisco, president, will preside.

German Duty High

Berlin.—The duty on an ordinary Ford automobile imported into Germany will be about $500 under the new tariff act, which was passed without amendment by the reichstag.
The car will sell in Germany for $1,100, but even at this price American manufacturers expect a considerable sale.

Freight Rates Reduced

Washington.—A sharp reduction in railroad rates on West Virginia low voltage coals was ordered by the interstate commerce commission with the declared purpose of making these fuels available on reasonable terms to consumers in New England and Atlantic seaboard states.

Rockefeller Tax Rebate

New York.—The estate of the late William G. Rockefeller will be reimbursed by New York state to the extent of $327,894 under an order issued by Surrogate O'Brien. The sum covers taxes paid in New York on property located in other states.

Turks Invade Persia

London.—An unconfirmed Central News dispatch from Constantinople said that a Turkish detachment had crossed the frontier and occupied Persian territory. Persia was reported to have sent a protest against this action to the Angora regime.

Bank Held Up for $20,000

Savings Bank and Trust company re-

RIOTERS ATTACK FAMOUS WRITER

MOUNTED POLICE IN FIGHT
WITH ANTI-SEMITICS

"HAKENKREUSLER" RIOTS
AGAINST ZIONIST MEET

Sixty Persons Were Injured in a Clash Between Police and Mobs of Anti-Semitic Rioters—Intimidation
of Delegates the Object.

Vienna.—Anti-Semitic mobs attempted to intimidate the Zionist congress delegates here when six thousand Viennese police were unable to prevent street demonstrations and wild rioting by the so-called "Haken-kreusler," anti-Semitic Nationalistic
youth and other similar organizations.
Police President Schober forbade the planned demonstrations, but in spite of the prohibition several thousand rioters gathered to invade the city.
They surrounded the hotels where delegates were housed and shouted and shrieked their imprecations.

Large police reserves were called out and all hotels surrounded with cordons of mounted and foot police, who were forced to attack the rioters
with sabers.

Lady Drummond Hay, famous English writer, is also reported to have been attacked in a taxicab and hit on the head with a stone.

At about 11 o'clock in the evening
the police gained control and the mobs began to disperse.

DIRIGIBLE SQUADRONS
PLANNED BY NAVY

New York.—Creation of a lighter-
than-air squadron of the United States navy within a short time was disclosed by Captain Walter R. Gherardi, aviation aide to the secretary of the navy and former commander of the aircraft squadrons of the scouting fleet.

Captain Gherardi declared the navy is now in possession of plans for di-rigibles considerably larger than the Los Angeles and comprising special offensive and defensive attributes.

The first line ships of the lighter-than-air squadron will at first be the military dirigible Shenandoah and the commercial, or transport dirigible,
with a lesser company of naval bags
and balloons, all grouped under one command. To this organization all new dirigibles will be added and given places in the lines.

Armament for newer dirigibles already is in process of planning and will include rapid firing guns mounted in cysts built into the structure of the ships, with space enough for the small operating crews. In battle each dirigible is expected to be defended by airplanes in a manner very similar to the defense of battleships by destroyers. Each dirigible, furthermore, will carry complete smoke screen apparatus.

Trade With Mexico Increases

Washington.—The more than $15,- 000,000 increase in American exports to Mexico in 1924 over 1923 represented heavier purchase of a variety of goods including fuel and lubricating oil, distillate, gasoline, automobiles and tires, the Mexican embassy pointed out in a trade analysis made public. Mexican imports from this country last year were $135,075,674 (American money). Substantial increases were made in imports of dry goods, notions, knit goods, hats, drugs, chemicals, glass, porcelain and chinaware, while minor advances were recorded in purchases of prepared food products, wood pulp, paper products, malt, hops, crates, barrels, lumber and mine supplies. The embassy's analysis declared the expanded buying due to increased industrial activity, larger use of automobiles, heavier export of certain products and improved purchasing power of the population because of stable conditions.

New Shanghai Strike

Shanghai.—Twenty-two hundred out of four thousand postal employees walked out recently, demanding increases in pay and shorter working hours. The strikers attacked the Gernese constable guarding the postoffice and administered a beating. The constable fired upon the men, wounding one. Deliveries have been suspended.

U. S. Soldier Kills Mexican

San Antonio, Texas.—As the result of a pistol duel Private Nell, service battery, Fifteenth field artillery, lies in Fort Sam Houston general hospital
with a bullet in his right shoulder, while Deputy Sheriff Tony Diaz and other officers are seeking the body of a Mexican whom Nell shot.

The United States Today Is, Above All Others, a Railroad Nation

By C. H. MARKHAM, President Illinois Central System.

THIS year is the centennial of the railroads. It was on September 27, 1825, that the Stockton & Darlington railway in England was thrown open to operation under an act that provided for hauling of wagons and other carriages upon the line "with men or horses or otherwise." "Otherwise" was the loophole which allowed George Stephenson, engineer of the road and an experimenter with steam engines, to persuade his company to use a steam locomotive to haul its first train. That train, with its prophetic load of coal, flour and passengers, moved at an average rate of eight miles an hour.

Only a few years after the opening of the world's first railroad, in England, our own nation took up the novelty, with what result you all can recognize today. Railroads, it seemed, were exactly what the vast land areas of this country needed. The United States today is, above all others, a railroad nation. The people of our country owe more to the railroads than the people of most countries do, because the greater part of our existence and growth as an independent nation has been coincident with the railway era. Today, with only about one-sixteenth of the world's land area, we possess in this country approximately one-third of the total railway mileage of the world, and our railroads lead those of all other nations in the high quality and low cost of their service.

Our nation today is the richest and most advanced nation of the world. It has become so largely because it has enjoyed for nearly a century a form of transportation excellently adapted to its great distances and its wide variety of products. Because of cheap and efficient railway transportation, available in all parts of the country, the products of all regions today are to be obtained in every region. The products of every region can be and are marketed in all regions. Passengers are moved long distances with great rapidity.

Many a Business in the United States Suffering From Conferencitis

By RODMAN GILDER, Editor Credit Monthly.

Many a business is suffering from conferencitis. A grave case is the department head, whose confidence and courage have been emasculated by the wrong kind of control from above, who believes it necessary to confer with the chief before taking any action outside of routine.

A still more serious form of conferencitis appears when an executive calls together his immediate subordinates and, without profiting by their views, wastes many high-priced man-hours in useless repetition of his instructions.

Among the gravest conferencitis cases of all are those where the directors or partners in a business sit down together in the board room or over a luncheon table, and permit the discussion of details to obscure the real questions of policy that should be decided.

The cure for conferencitis in nearly every case is in the hands of the man higher up. He should call no conference of any kind that is unnecessary and he should at the earliest possible moment dispatch the work in hand and get every one back on the job.

Europe Is Desperately Anxious for Our Moral Support on Any Terms

By W. B. MCKINLEY, Senator From Illinois.

Europe has given up all hope of persuading the United States to enter the League of Nations. Talk of a limitation of arms conference is futile until France has been satisfied by some sort of a security pact. The European nations are so anxious to have this country enter the World court that they are willing to have us enter on our own terms.

I have been visiting Europe for seven years and this trip convinces me that Europe has given up all hope of our entering the league. Europe recognizes we are the most powerful and the most prosperous country in the world and it is desperately anxious to have our moral support. Europeans no longer expect a political tieup with this country, but they do want a working understanding in a united effort to keep the world at peace.

Two years ago Lord Robert Cecil said to me, "We want the United States on any terms. If your nation objects to the selection of the present court, the machinery is a matter of words, as far as my government and others are concerned. The United States should be a member."

The education of the dramatist should be that of life rather than of books. I cannot conceive of a real dramatist who has not known what it was to be broke and turned down by his girl at the same time. Such an experience is of far greater value than the most exhaustive study of the work of Euripides, though thoughtful consideration of the Greek dramas may be taken by one familiar with the teachings of life as a postgraduate course.

It is often said by those who favor dramas of the highest type that there is no reason why play-writing should not be classed with other professions and taught as effectively as law and medicine.

But the practice of law rests on the solid foundation of the Constitution and that of medicine or surgery on the immutable laws which govern the human body, whereas the writing of dramas has no foundation save the ever-shifting quicksand of public taste.

Registered Vote First Township
The great register of San Mateo county, just printed, shows the following total of registered voters in First township: Colma precinct, 317; Baden precinct, 311; Millbrae precinct, 117, making a total of 745 names upon the great register of this township.

Captain Rehberg has broken ground for his new building, corner of Linden and Baden avenue.

Honest Jacob Neff, candidate for Lieutenant-governor, was one of the first lot purchasers in our little town. Mr. Neff contemplates improving the same soon.

The ladies of our town have decided to give a ball on Saturday evening next for the benefit of the building fund of the proposed Catholic church at this place. General admission fifty cents.

Dan Daly, as a result of his bet on Maguire's election, will have to shave off his mustache and wheel Fred Desello in a wheelbarrow from Jorgenson's to the corner of Grand and Maple avenue and return. The event will occur on Sunday, one week from tomorrow, at 10 a. m. sharp.

Paries desiring to be supplied with oysters fresh from the oyster beds will be accommodated by leaving orders at Tom Benner's Court saloon. The oyster wagon will be at the Court saloon twice to three times per week.

The building of the W. P. Fuller paint and oil works is fast approaching completion. Work has been discontinued at the Fuller works in San Francisco and the work of removing and putting in machinery at the new plant here is well under way.

The W. P. Fuller oil and paint manufacturing works was formally opened on Tuesday. Upon the starting of the engine all the machines were found to be working perfectly. The first article manufactured by the new plant was a lot of putty.

We have received this week from Miss Cecelia Hynding, principal of our public school, the roll of honor for this district for the past term and publish the same with pleasure. Our failure to receive the list earlier has not been due to any fault of Miss Hynding, but to accident.

ROLL OF HONOR OF SAN BRUNO SCHOOL DISTRICT

The following named pupils received places on the roll of honor because of excellence in scholarship, deportment and attendance: Nellie Collins, Hannah Cohen, George Smith, Fred Willin, Jesse Cohen, Frank Williams, Glenice Woodville, Wesley Todd, Eva Russi, Kenneth MacLennan, Mary Dervin, George Kauffmann and Orion Blanchard.

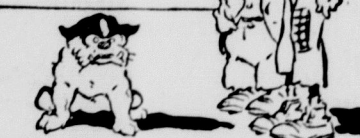

In addition to the above, the following named pupils deserve special mention because of excellence in scholarship and deportment: Nellie Dann, Lavina Jenevein, Leland Koford, Marion Miner, Amelia Jenevein, Margaret Freyers and Jack Martin. Had these last named pupils been up to the required per cent in attendance, they would have been entitled to have received the roll of honor.

The importance of punctual and regular attendance cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of parents and pupils alike. A lost day in a school term is much like a missing link in a chain.

In an imperfect world you must meet some fools. Pray that they may not be behind steering wheels.—Du-uth Herald.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

CONSIDERATION FOR HIM

Mrs. Youngbride (in first spat)—My popularity is easily seen in the great number of wedding presents I received!

Mr. Ditto—Quite true; but I notice you were given nothing with a handle, my dear.

Income of Kings

The world is so full of such highly priced things, I think we should all have the income of kings.

Careful of Tacks

"You want to get down to brass tacks in this campaign."

"I mean to," answered Senator Sorghum. "But I vaguely recall a very highly respected admonition to the effect that he who scatters brass tacks for his neighbors must keep a sharp lookout lest he sit on one himself!"—Washington Star.

He Was Dreaming

He—Do you believe in signs and omens?

She—Yes.

He—Last night I dreamed you loved me. What does that mean?

She—That you were dreaming.

Household Efficiency

Her Husband—What are you doing with all those sheets and tablecloths on the floor?

Mrs. Fatmore—Primarily I'm rolling to reduce. Incidentally I'm mangling the flat pieces from the wash.

ELIMINATING OVERHEAD

Mrs. Pester—Nice, isn't it, we can sit here at home and listen to a sermon and not bother to dress for church?

Her Husband—And also, they can't pass the collection plate by radio.

TRIALS OF WEDDED LIFE

Radio Fan—Have you a loud speaker in your house?

Longsuffer—Yes, loud and incessant. I'm sometimes sorry I married her.

Supply and Demand

Supply and demand
Serve to heighten the gloom.
There are always more problems
Than we can consume.

Conditions Changed

He—You are very extravagant in your dress.

She—Before we were married anything that was for me you never thought extravagant, no matter how much it cost.

He—Hub! I never said what I thought then.

Contemplation

"I have heard that you contemplate retiring to private life."

"I do," answered Senator Sorghum; "the same as I contemplate going to heaven. It's a sweet and blissful prospect, but somehow you don't feel in any particular hurry about it!"—Washington Star.

Old, but No Fool

She (to old suitor)—You know what people would say—that you were foolish enough to let me marry you for your money.

He—Oh, no, my dear; they would say I was too smart to let you get it any other way.

SHOULD BE TRAINED

Wife—I don't think I approve of this movement to train young people for marriage.

Hubby—What! Ain't pugilists and soldiers and all other fighting people trained?

The movie actor has to face the perils of publicity. And sacrifice, in quest of "space," His marital felicity.

Travel

Homebody—The last time I saw the great Mr. Multitrox was in Venice.

Benabroad—G'wan! You've never been in Venice.

Homebody—I know it, but I've been to the movies.

Oil field operations in California reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ending August 1, 1925, show 27 new wells started, as compared with 17 during the previous week. Of the 27 notices to drill filed this week, eight were for wells in the Inglewood field, two in the Torrance field, two in the Long Beach field, one in the Rosecrans field, one in the Newport field, one in the Bardale field, two in the Conejo field, one in the Cat canyon field, eight in the fields of Kern county and one in Tulare county. The total new wells this year is 850, as compared with 927 at the same date last year.

Tulare county boosters, representing all sections, have unanimously agreed to support a trans-Sierra highway connecting the valley cities with Lone Pine, Inyo county, by way of the southern end of the Sequoia national park, at present inaccessible by road, Kern river canyon and Mt. Whitney. The proposed road, for which state and federal aid will be sought, will, it is estimated, cost half a million dollars and will connect with the Midland trail at Lone Pine, that county building to the top of the divide from the Inyo side.

Mud, splinters and dead chickens were under foot today as the half thousand inhabitants of Rockwood, Imperial valley town, set themselves to the task of bringing order out of the chaos left in the wake of a recent tornado. The property damage, estimated at between $125,000 and $175,000, covered the destruction of a grain warehouse and cantaloupe sheds, damage to grocery store that was whisked off its foundation and planted in the mud two hundred yards away, destruction or damage of a dozen homes and the havoc wrought in corn and cotton fields and among telephone and telegraph lines serving the village.

The actual survey for the new mountain automobile highway connecting Sequoia national park with General Grant national park is now under way. Resident Engineer W. M. Austin, who is in charge of all road construction, including the new General's highway, sent the crew into the field with instructions to run three preliminary lines. Work will start on the new road, it is believed, early next spring.

His Accidental End

There are all sorts of ways of putting things, and some sound much better than others. For example, there is the case of the man of whom Lord Coleridge used to tell, whose father was hanged for highway robbery. Some one asked him how his father died. "Sir," said he "he fell from a scaffolding outside Newgate while he was talking to a clergyman."—Youth's Companion.

Mercury is the smallest planet, and the nearest to the sun. Owing to its proximity to the sun it is difficult to see it with the naked eye. Its mean distance from the sun is 36,000,000 miles, while that of the earth is about 93,000,000 miles. Mercury completes a revolution of its orbit in 88 days; it is about 3,000 miles in diameter; and its mass is only about one-eightieth that of the earth.

New Ideas in Mental Tests for Children

In some of the elementary English schools, today, mental tests are made, and gauged by the quickness shown in solving certain problems presented pictorially. One test, known as the Porteus maze, measures temperament as well as mind. Eleven mazes, graded progressively in difficulty, are printed on separate sheets, and the pupil is told that they show the paths in a garden surrounded by walls. He must find his way out by the quickest route. The showing made depends on the pupil's ability to work under pressure and to withstand distraction by unessentials in the material or by noises in the room. A cube imitation test involves the touching of four numbered cubes in a certain sequence as indicated by the teacher, the combinations of numbers being made more and more difficult. Each test gives a certain score, and by combining the scores the mental age of the pupil is arrived at. Single tests are of no value. The tests of London boys and girls between the ages of eight and thirteen showed some interesting sex differences. The girls excelled in memory tests and the boys in reasoning.

Old Age Reverenced Among Eskimo Tribes

Old people are held in great respect among the Eskimos, and their counsel is always considered. They help as far as they are able in the household work, the old men repairing weapons, harness, etc., and the old women in sewing and tending the lamps. In times of scarcity, as in winter, meat and oil are always shared around. Directly a seal or deer is brought in it is cut up and sent to each needy family. In times of plenty each family is supposed to provide for itself, but old people, widows and orphans have always the first claim upon those who have the means. Among these people mutual kindness is a general obligation. A widow or orphan child is never left alone, but taken into the house and family circle of the nearest relative. The widow gives her services in return for food and lodging and clothing, and the child is cared for exactly as the man's own offspring.

Light on Biblical Authorship

An Egyptian tomb in western Thebes, it is said, has furnished evidence that the writer of the Book of Proverbs is indebted for some of his passages to an Egyptian named Amenemope, who, according to records, lived hundreds of years earlier than the Bible author. A comparison of the two passages referred to follows that of Proverbs 1: "Incline thy ears and hear the words of wisdom and apply thy breast to my knowledge. For it is pleasant if thou keep them in thy breast; if they are ready, all of them on thy tongue." "Incline thy ears and hear my words and apply thy heart thereto to understand them. Good is it if thou dost set them in thy heart, but woe to him who transgresses them. Let them rest in thy breast, that they may be a key to thy tongue."—Family Herald.

Developed Own Talent

Melissier, the great French painter of military subjects, was practically self taught, having received only very meager instruction from teachers. His "Retreat From Moscow" was sold for $170,000 in 1890.

What Seemed Humorous

Mother was entertaining a caller, when suddenly Dorothy, who had been playing on the floor, yawned prodigiously. "My, what a big yawn for such a little girl!" exclaimed the caller. "Yes," agreed Dorothy, "and the funny part is that I wasn't listening at all to what you were saying!"

Belief in Horseshoes Traced to the Druids

The idea that it is lucky to find a horseshoe is regarded by authorities on folklore as a Druidical survival.

The superstition is peculiar to regions where Druidism once flourished, and the Druidical places of worship, as exemplified by Stonehenge, made their inner circle of stones a broken or open one.

The idea that a horseshoe brings the best luck when you find it lying with the points toward you—the sacred inner circle open to you, as it were—also bears upon this theory.

Druidism passed, but the superstition outlasted empires and religions, and when horseshoes became common the superstitious found ready at hand a representation of the ancient symbol of the broken circle. The idea that in attaching the symbol to the house the points should be up had a Druidical significance which has been lost. People nowadays say it is "to prevent the luck running out."

Don't feed animals of different ages and sizes in the same pen or pot.

Must Keep Barrel Clean

The National Rifle association says that after the residue of smokeless powder in a gun barrel has been allowed to remain and the barrel has become pitted, nothing can be done to remedy the condition. Rifles and pistols should be cleaned immediately after firing. It is best to swab the barrel with warm water and dry carefully, then apply a heavy grease to prevent rust.

Don't feed carcasses of animals that have died of disease to any of your stock or chickens.

Protecting Public Health

There is no doubt about the fact that the National Ice Cream Company makes the very best ice cream that is produced.

The lengths to which this company goes, irrespective of cost, is little short of phenomenal.

Many years ago a high salaried professor of dairy industry from the University of California College of agriculture at Davis was secured to supervise the production of cream from 179 dairies located in the San Joaquin Valley—the National Ice Cream Company taking the entire output. Thus, each cow is actually doubly inspected and the highest quality of cream is assured, a thing which has never been done by any other ice cream company.

The exquisitely sanitary creamery, too, located in the midst of this vast dairying district, comes under the same thorough and exacting supervision, so that the highest standard of cream is attained—a standard which no other ice cream company has been able to equal.

The result is—the National Ice Cream Company holds a pre-eminent position in the ice cream industry today.

It is the only ice cream company which considers something beyond grim profit. It is the only ice cream company NOT privately owned, but is under the direct control of distributors, employees and hundreds of individuals, vitally interested.

Centuries Have Seen No Change in Hammer

Recently an old hammer was found embedded in a mass of concrete to which was attached a piece of Roman tile. From the broken crockery found with it, there is no doubt that it must have been a Roman hammer dating from the Second or Third century. The fortunate discoverer of this interesting relic was carrying it off in triumph to his office when he happened to pass a workman nailing a carpet with what is known as an upholsterer's hammer. This, on inspection turned out to be an exact replica of the Roman instrument, except that it was very slightly smaller. The bevel on the inside of the claws of the nail wrench was the same. The same number of rivets was used to attach the head to the wooden handle, and these rivets were fixed in exactly the same positions. As "Q. W.," writing of the incident in one of the papers, remarked: "So with all our vaunted progress, there seem to be some things which, having once been designed to meet a special need, cannot be improved upon so long as the need remains the same."

Days of Life Should Not Be All Routine

Life consists of days, not years. Days are all that we're sure of. Too many of us drift along and forget the approach of that final event called Death. Time is everlasting, but you and I have only a tiny bit of it. Herbert N. Casson writes, in Forbes Magazine. What we would do, we must do quickly. Time is the stuff that Life is made of. There is nothing in the world so precious and so scarce as time. We have no days to waste. We need every one of them to build our lives with. No one, ever, has too many days when he comes to the end of his life. That is why we should not allow a day to be all routine. That is why we should always put to a good use the two or three hours before bedtime. That is why we should end every day with a little friendship, or music, or study, or fun, or family sentiment. Never a day without a laugh, except when sorrow comes. Never a day without a book. Never a day without a friend. That is the way to be sure, every evening, that you have come to the end of a perfect day.

British Bird Sanctuaries

Farne Islands, off the Northumbrian (England) coast, have been handed over to the national trust for preservation as a bird sanctuary. The islands number 15, and have an area of 80 acres. The regular breeding population includes gulls of three species, terns of four, auks of three, cormorants of two, waders of two, and one species of duck. The islands form one of the most southerly stations in the breeding range of the eider duck. The most interesting species, perhaps, is that of the roseate tern, now found only in a few British localities. As a breeding place for sea fowl the Farne Islands have no equal around the British coasts, and even the great bird stations among the Scottish Isles lack one or two of the species represented here.

Largest Orange Grove

The largest orange grove in the world, covering an area of 2,000 acres, is in Cuba.

Britain's Constitution

The constitution of Great Britain, many of whose principles form the foundations of about every free constitution in the world, is an accumulation of statutes, customs and decisions. The Magna Charta, granted in 1215 by King John, may be regarded as a starting point. Other salient features are the petition of rights and the declaration of rights, the habeas corpus act, the act of settlement, the franchise laws and the practices and customs respecting the responsibility of government. The sovereign would accept or decline gifts of small value or of no political significance, according to his own wish or judgment, but a gift of very considerable value would not be accepted without the advice and consent of the ministry.

Sand Feet for Clowns

Stilts usually employed by circus clowns to give them gigantic stature during their antics in the rings have feet of sand to aid the performer in walking and to maintain his balance. The poles are of stout hickory flattened and widened at the tops to fit the wearer's thighs and fitted with straps to hold them in position.

Toward the bottom the props are rounded and tapered, ending in soft shoes filled with coarse sand which are fastened on the sticks so that the heels support the points. Wide trousers or other apparel cover the stilts for their full length, and the clowns appear to walk on their heels.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Rough Stuff

He met and wooed her. She was coldly indifferent. He showered costly gifts on her. She encouraged him. He married her. She was bored. He laid himself at her feet. She trampled on him. He was faithful and loyal. She flirted. He lost his temper. She liked him. He knocked her down. She adored him, and they lived happily ever after.—M. S., in London Mail.

New Yorker's Act of Courtesy Was Wasted

He is a New Yorker distinguished for his unflinching courtesy. It has become second nature to him to do the right and kind thing. Strangely enough, he is also given to moments of absorption in which external registers only automatically upon his consciousness. Frequently, in his homeward walks, he becomes so occupied with his own thoughts that he is in a world quite apart from that which is worrying past him. However, the instinct of courtesy remains, no matter how preoccupied he may be.

He was strolling homeward an evening or two ago, lost in reverie. The people who went by were merely gray shapes, a flutter on the screen he dimly saw out of the tail of his eye.

One shape came toward him, a vague thing, one of many. As it reached a point abreast of him he saw something white flutter from it to the sidewalk. To his engrossed mind that meant only one thing, that someone dropped something, and the someone a woman, as they are the ones who most often drop things. Courtesy demanded that he stoop and pick it up and return it.

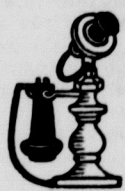

For just one instant he emerged from his preoccupation, stooped and picked up the white thing he had seen flutter down. He proffered it to the young woman, and then, all of a sudden, realized he was handing her a woolly white dog!

"Thanks ever so much," she said. "But I intended to let him down for a little run."

And Mr. Courtesy raised his hat, and passed on and back into his reverie.—New York Evening World.

Read as Death Beckoned

A reader asks whether we know which work of Voltaire it was that was found on Sargent's deathbed. We don't. But it may interest him and others to know that Tennyson died with his Shakespeare open at "Cymbeline"; Macaulay when he was found dead in his library had a number of the Cornhill magazine before him, open at the first chapter of Thackeray's "Lovel the Widower." Mark Twain with almost the last effort of his mind turned to Carlyle's "French Revolution."—W. Orton Tewson in the New York Evening Post.

Groundless Fear

Some persons dread to take an anesthetic because they fear they will talk in their sleep. This is largely a myth, says Dr. Floyd Troutman Romberger, an anesthetist, who is a contributor to Hygeia, health magazine published by the American Medical association.

Under modern methods of inducing anesthetic sleep, consciousness is lost so rapidly that the patient does not have time to say anything. When he is coming to, he usually is so drowsy that he does not care to talk.

Had Gone Far Enough

A married couple were knocked down by a motorcar. The car dashed away. The police arrived and found the couple bursting with indignation.

"Do you know the number of the car?" asked the policeman.

"John," said the wife, "we will let the matter drop at once."

MOTORING IN THE REDWOODS

The Sequoia of California has a peculiar attraction for the tourist as well as the native born. It not only makes up a great portion of the forest area of the state, but it offers advantages beyond that of any other forest growth. It is probably a relative of the cedar and for that reason the insects usually found in the leaves and branches scattered throughout the forest are conspicuous by their absence. It forms, therefore, an ideal retreat for the camper and the perfume of the bark and fronds is particularly pleasing at this season of the year.

Redwood forests may be found in California to the north, to the east and south. You may visit a pleasant grove within a few hours of the city or over the main highways to the north and the east.

For the benefit of the tourist who enjoys an excursion to the realm of the redwoods, where camping facilities are provided and where he may spend a delightful vacation under the shade of the oldest of living things, the touring bureau of the National Automobile Club has provided the following summary of redwood excursions, any one of which forms an exceptionally pleasing summer tour from which one may return refreshed and eager for the months to come.

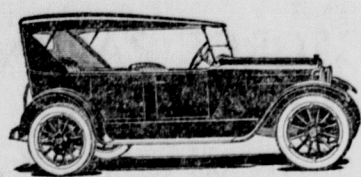

The greatest area given to the Redwood is to be found along the world-famous Redwood Highway, extending from Sausalito to the Oregon line. The little town of Cummings is the gateway to the great forest reserve and from this point on, any number of locations will be encountered where camp may be pitched in surroundings that approach the ideal. These groves along the Redwood route form one of the most attractive features of the northwest coast.

The second largest area devoted to redwood trees is to be found in Sequoia and General Grant National parks, reached by way of Reedley or Visalia over the Valley route south.

In the Northern Sierras, the Mariposa Grove, the Calaveras and Tuolumne include some of the largest and most perfect trees in the world.

South of San Francisco in the Big Basin lies the California State Redwood Park, in which are a number of good sized trees and where camping accommodations are offered for the motorist who carries along his own paraphernalia or for those who do not.

In Marin County is the national monument named after John Muir, the

EXHAUST GAS IN CLOSED GARAGE

Sufficient Ventilation While Engine Is Running Will Avoid Danger.

"Don't start your engine in the garage with all the doors and windows closed," warns Fred M. Rosseland, chief of the public safety division of the National Safety Council, in calling the attention of motorists to the danger of automobile exhaust gases in unventilated rooms. Although many cases of fatal carbon monoxide asphyxiation occur in private garages every year, especially in northern communities, still the hazard does not receive the attention it deserves as a menace.

Induces Asphyxiation.

"A running motor in a garage 10 by 10 by 20 feet with doors and windows closed will in five minutes produce enough monoxide gas to induce asphyxiation," says Mr. Rosseland. "If the engine continues to run, the concentration mounts steadily toward a rapidly fatal amount. If it is necessary to run a motor for any length of time, take care to see that there is sufficient ventilation to keep the air clear. The deadly carbon monoxide contained in the exhaust gas creeps upon one and does its work without warning. The victim falls insensible before he realizes that anything is wrong. A slight dizziness is the only warning. Exercise of a little forethought in giving the garage sufficient ventilation while the engine is running will eliminate the danger."

In case of carbon monoxide asphyxiation from automobile exhaust gases, immediate application of the prone pressure method of resuscitation is immediately and absolutely necessary. Even a couple of minutes' delay after breathing has stopped, may be fatal—a quarter or half an hour is almost always fatal. The next step after restoring spontaneous breathing is to accelerate the elimination of carbon monoxide from the blood. Carbon monoxide unites with the blood and displaces the oxygen. Left in the blood it attacks the brain with disastrous results to the victim. Extensive experiments carried on recently by Dr. Vandell Henderson, of Yale university, and Drs. H. W. Haggard and A. L. Prince, showed that the only certain method of displacing the carbon monoxide was through the inhalation of a mixture of oxygen and carbon dioxide. Most municipal gas companies are now equipped with the apparatus for reviving victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Preventive Measures.

"But preventive measures are much more to be desired than the use of resuscitation knowledge in bringing a victim of automobile exhaust gas back to consciousness," says Mr. Rosseland. "In this case the open door is the safeguard. If necessary to run your motor for any length of time within the garage, open doors and windows. Just remember this and pass the same information on to your friends. It may save a life!"

Carburetor and Vacuum Tank Need Attention

The owner and service man are often prone to blame the engine lubricating oil when excessive dilution is found to be prevalent in an automobile. There are a considerable number of causes of excessive dilution which can be traced not to the oil, but to the maladjustment, and malfunctioning of the fuel supply system.

There are several operating conditions which tend to cause excessive crankcase dilution, namely: Rich carburetor adjustment, excessive use of the choke in starting, excessive idling of the engine, or low engine operating temperatures. When these factors are adequately taken care of and excessive dilution still occurs, it is advisable to check over the fuel supply system to determine whether there is a leaky carburetor float or a sticky vacuum tank mechanism.

naturalist, a magnificent stand of redwood, although the trees are not of the massive size of those in the Big Basin or in Sequoia and Mariposa.

On the outskirts of Oakland, too, within an hour's drive from the center of the city, the motorist may find himself in the midst of cool redwood trees in a veritable wilderness of beauty and drive along lanes bordered by fern and bracken and cross now and then a tiny stream which flows down the canyons into the bay.

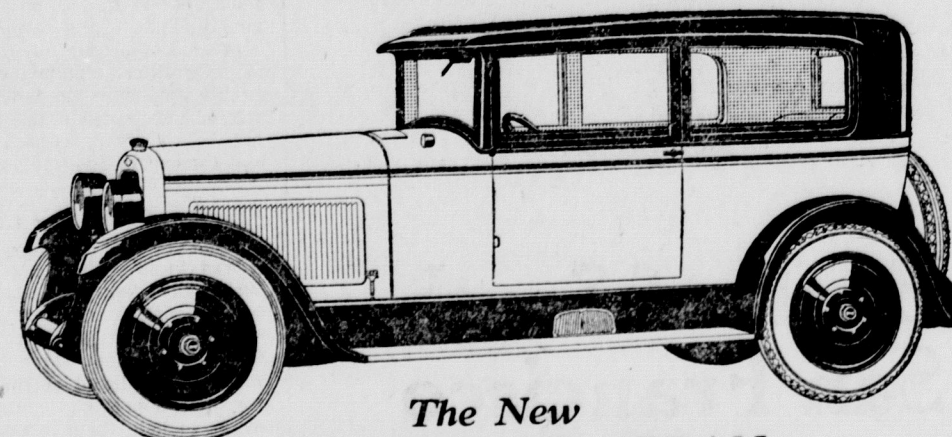

Along the Russian River there is a considerable extent of redwood. This was one of the features of that part of the state which attracted the Russians to select Fort Ross as the seat of their occupation of California.

A tour of the redwood districts of the state makes an admirable excursion. Whether you go north, east or south, you will find beauty everywhere and a strange charm beside the flaming campfire in California's redwood forests.

Scotch Terrier Aids Golfer Make Birdie

While playing a round with his brother, D. M. Wolf and Cecil Spedden, in the qualification round of a recent tournament, J. H. Lassell of the Maryland Country club became a principal in a unique golf situation.

Lassell was on the second green in two and had a 15-foot putt for his birdie 3. Just as he tapped the ball with his putter a small Scotch terrier, which had been lying down on the green just off the carpet, dashed on to the sward, skidded across the green and seized the ball a short distance from the cup. The next instant the dog had dropped the gutta percha into the cup. There has been a great deal of argument since as to just how many strokes Lassell should have credited himself for the hole.

JENNINGS ALLOWS GIANTS TO THINK

Players Act Pretty Much on Their Own Initiative in Game.

Rogers Hornsby, when he took over the management of the St. Louis Cardinals, said he was going to operate on the theory that every one of his men knew how to play his position and was qualified to do a little thinking of his own. Hornsby has the sound argument that his players can handle their own position, or they wouldn't be in the big leagues and he is smart enough to let his players know that he does not aspire to become a "master mind."

John McGraw's claim that in the world's series games of the past four years he ordered every ball that was thrown by his pitchers and directed every play that was made on the defense, started a lot of speculation about the wisdom of "master minding."

Some competent baseball men said that McGraw was trying to throw off the opposition by his claim of "master minding" and that he was trying to focus the enemy observation on him so that the signals, if any, could be passed from some other player.

Others insisted that McGraw was serious in taking the responsibility entirely on his shoulders and denying the players any initiative. But regardless of his motives, the team won four pennants, although the master mind could not win every game for his club. Early this season, McGraw was laid up with a severe cold and the team was handled for weeks by Hugh Jennings, the former manager of the Detroit Tigers, who has been acting as McGraw's assistant for several years. It was apparent to all of those who observed the team that Jennings was not "master minding" and that the players were acting a lot on their own. The team played just as well for Jennings as it did for McGraw.

Big Peril to Hurlers

Jonathan Brooks, more popularly known as "Mandy," recently secured by the Chicago Cubs, is hitting the ball at a terrific rate. He is fast on the paths and fields cleverly. He comes from Columbus, Ohio.

Active Newspaper Man in Professional Baseball

In Southpaw Stanwood Fulton Baumgartner, the Athletics have one of the few active newspaper men in professional baseball. Numerous players have taken to writing after they quit the diamond, or had special stuff under their signatures during the world series games, but Baumgartner is the real thing. He was the correspondent for a Philadelphia daily, covering his team's activities at the Ft. Myers (Fla.) training camp, and he still keeps his hands in typewriter practice. A University of Chicago graduate, he intends to make newspaper work—and not necessarily the sporting end of it—his life work after he has laid aside his glove and uniform. He is now enjoying a splendid major league comeback. He was with the Phillies several years ago and then dropped to the minors. Last year he came up to the big show again and made good for Connie Mack, and promises to give much help to Gray, Rommel, Harris and Groves in the A's battling with the Senators and Indians.

If you have anything to sell or trade, tell the people about it in this section.

Give Pitcher Luque an Unusual Victory

Pitcher Luque of the Cincinnati Nationals was credited with a victory under unusual circumstances the other day. Boston was leading 4 to 0 at the end of the fifth inning and, as the Cincinnati boxman was going to the bench, he was ordered out of the game by the umpire. The next inning Cincinnati made nine runs and won the game and, as no boxman had been named to replace Luque when his team scored its winning runs, he had to be given credit for the victory.

BRITISH OPEN IS WON BY AMERICAN

Historic Golf Trophy Is Captured by Player From United States.

The matter of depriving John Bull of his most coveted golf prize, the open championship, seems to have become an American habit, even with Walter Hagen out of the competition, says a sporting expert. The Beau Brummel of the American links did not defend the title he won last year abroad, but "Long Jim" Barnes finally broke through to the top.

Thus the historic trophy stays in the United States for the fourth time in the past five years, a record which more than squares accounts for the setbacks administered to American talent in days gone by.

The record of American contenders for the British open title has been remarkably consistent in this five-year span. Here are how the leading invaders have placed in that time:

1921—Jack Hutchison first, Tom Kerrigan third.

1922—Walter Hagen first, Jim Barnes tied for second with George Duncan.

1923—Walter Hagen second to Arthur Havers of England, MacDonald Smith third.

1924—Walter Hagen first, MacDonald Smith third.

1925—Jim Barnes first, MacDonald Smith fourth.

Smith has missed three golden opportunities to break through in as many successive years. He has shot better course records twice in the competition, but lacked the consistency to reach the top. He had the title in his grasp in the recent open until he "blew" in the last round.

However, the fact that both Barnes and Smith are British born and learned the game on the ancient isle somewhat softens the shock abroad, though the trophy goes overseas just the same.

Sport Notes

France has 71 bull-fighting clubs.

Billiards is played more than any other sport.

Cedric Durst Stars

Cedric Durst, former St. Louis Brown outfielder, is now playing a mighty clever game for the St. Paul team of the American association. It is more than likely that Manager Sisler will recall this young star this fall.

Classifying Peanut

The peanut is a pea rather than a nut and belongs to the same group of plants as do beans and common garden peas, differing only in that it possesses the character of blooming above ground and maturing its fruit or pod beneath the surface of the soil.

Australians Claim*Hawaiian Ancestry

Many of the Maoris of Australia consider that their race had its origin in Hawaii centuries ago. It has been revealed by Raitana Jakoba, a prominent Maori. He is at Honolulu with a group of Mormon church workers from Australia to visit the famous Mormon temple at Lake Oahu.

Jakoba said that he had traced his ancestry back to a chieftain named Hema, who ruled the island of Hawaii. After a devastating war in which Hema was defeated badly and forced to flee he and a few companions set sail for the south in huge war canoes. Maori legends have it that they landed in New Zealand and lived there for several years. Later Hema returned to Hawaii, where the residents worshiped to as their supreme being. Hema returned to New Zealand and many people accompanied him. He also took the image of Io.

Country's Manufactures

The last biennial census of manufacturers shows that in 1923 the value of the output of the United States establishments making canned products, their primary or secondary business, amounted to $522,763,003. Peas, corn, tomatoes and baked beans are canned in about equal proportion, between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 cases of each. Peaches head the canned fruits with 7,039,334 cases and raisins, the dried fruits, with 380,068,441 pounds.

Children under three years of age will not be permitted to appear in moving-picture films in Germany if a bill introduced in the reichstag becomes a law. The bill further provides that children between three and twelve years may not appear in films except by permit of police and school authorities.

Cat's-Eye Has Many*Points of Beauty

The dictionary describes the cat's-eye as a "gem exhibiting opalescent reflections from within, like the eyes of a cat. Specifically a variety of chrysoberyl or a variety of quartz or chalcedony, inferior to this in brilliancy. It is cut en cabochon."

The distinguishing feature of the cat's-eye stone is the peculiar milky-white, bluish or greenish-white sheen which crosses and recrosses it with every play of the light as the gem is turned about. The explanation of this peculiarity is that the stone contains, packed in its depths, many closely-matted fibers of another strange mineral, familiar to us as asbestos. The thing that makes asbestos remarkable in the mineral world is that though it is rock, it does not crumble when crushed, but comes to pieces in the form of fibers. It is the streak of these fibers in the cat's-eye which causes it to reflect the light in its very lovely way, with every movement of the finger wearing it.

Of course, the beauty of the stone can also be greatly enhanced by the skill of the cutter. To say that the stone is cut "en cabochon" means that in this style of cutting the upper part of the stone is shaped like a low dome, and it brings out all the natural luster and color of opaque and translucent stones. Therefore, such stones as the garnet, turquoise, cat's-eye, etc., are usually cut in this way. The best cat's-eye comes from India and Ceylon.

Locates the Pain

Vagrant aches and pains which often afflict the stomach and are hard to identify may now be accurately located and classified by an instrument resembling a miniature seismograph, the device with which earthquake tremors are recorded, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. The pain finder, devised by Dr. W. C. Alvarez of the University of California, is said to register the course of such ills in almost any part of the abdomen and to clearly reveal every step of the digestive processes. By the recorder, the passage of food through the digestive tract can be closely followed, and the exact spot and instant of the setting up of any trouble definitely learned in a few minutes. The instrument, called the multiple-electro-enterograph, is said to obtain its data by means of a pendulum swung in a vacuum tube and marks its records with a needle.

Harp Loses Eminence

Tara's famous harp is disappearing and fast becoming but a memory. At the recent Feis Ceilidh in Dublin, the festival to which Ireland's budding musicians come annually to submit themselves to tests set by eminent adjudicators—there was only one entrant for the harp competition and only one, also, in the competition for a song with harp accompaniment. It is explained that the harp is at a disadvantage as compared with the violin and other instruments of smaller bulk, since it is not easily portable for private entertainments, and being essentially an instrument of the individual, it can never hope to find a place as an item of household equipment as does the piano. But whatever the reason, the fact remains that the harp is becoming almost as extinct in Ireland as are the snakes banished by St. Patrick.

Famous Royal House

The name "House of Bourbon" is given to the royal family that for many generations occupied the thrones of France, Naples and Spain, and still reigns in the last named country. The house of Bourbon was founded about 900 A. D., by Adhemar, lord of Bourbon, who traced his descent to Charles Martel. The first French sovereign of the line was Henry of Navarre who in 1589 became king with the title of Henry IV. The Bourbon family retained the throne of France until the French revolution when it was deposited in the person of Louis XVI. In 1814, after the fall of Napoleon I, it was restored to power and held the sovereignty until 1830, when the house of Orleans, a younger branch of the Bourbon family, succeeded it.—Kansas City Times.

The Trusting Sex

"Well, dear," said Mrs. Jones, as her husband one evening dragged himself wearily up the porch steps and sat down with a sigh in his favorite rocker, "how did things go at the office today?" Mr. Jones sighed again, and fanned himself with his straw hat as he replied, absent-mindedly, "They didn't go well. They didn't go well. They didn't go well at all. I had a ninety-three and I should have had a ninety-two."

Mrs. Jones smiled. "Ninety-two orders in one day," she cooed. "I wouldn't call that bad for a beginner!"

Champion Freak Wager

Two members of the Turnverein "Gut Heil" of Krefeld, Germany, are rolling a barrel 9 feet high and 6 feet in diameter, along the German frontier to win a wager. According to the conditions laid down they are to roll this 700-pound cask around the entire German border within a year. This requires them to cover at least 6,9 miles daily. Thus far they have averaged 12.2 miles since they started in January.
